What Distinguishes Moxley Electronics from the Rest?

Moxley Electronics is an engineering oriented distribution company that provides solutions in motion control and industrial automation, machine safety, linear motion, and vision applications. Our sales force consists solely of industry-trained engineers who offer cost-effective solutions for today's challenges and tomorrow's complexities. We represent world-class suppliers and seek to build and maintain relationships with world-class customers.

Technical Support Taken to the Next Level

We stand behind all our products, providing on-site technical support and other value-add services including training, consultation, development and design, programming, and schematics. Our Applications Engineers can provide engineered solutions tailored to your application and company.
